About the Magazine

Diary of Applied Gerontology (JAG), peer-audited and distributed month to month, gives a worldwide gathering to data that has clear and quick materialness to the wellbeing, care, and personal satisfaction of more seasoned grown-ups. It brings you extensive inclusion of all zones of gerontological practice and strategy, for example, providing care, exercise, passing and kicking the bucket, identity and maturing, innovation and care, long haul administrations and backing, emotional well-being, and sexuality. This diary is an individual from the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE).
