About the Magazine

ELLE is a globally renowned fashion magazine that covers everything from beauty tips to celebrity fashion. Its editor-in-chief, Nina Garcia, is a respected figure in the fashion industry whose talent and vision have made ELLE one of the most influential magazines in the world. ELLE is known for its cutting-edge content, showcasing the latest trends and styles. The magazine has a wide range of fashion industry veterans with impressive resumes, including serving as a judge on "Project Runway" and working at magazines like Marie Claire and Elle Décor.

But ELLE is more than just a fashion magazine. It strives to empower women with its content, covering topics such as women in the workplace, relationships, and politics. Its mission is to inspire and inform its readers on a variety of topics, including fashion, beauty, and social issues. One of the most prominent features of ELLE is its cover shoots. The magazine consistently features groundbreaking covers that challenge traditional beauty standards and showcase diverse models. Some notable recent covers include Zendaya, Lizzo, and Awkwafina.
