About the Magazine

InStyle is a fashion magazine that aims to inspire women to lead stylish, empowering lives. It covers everything from celebrity fashion to beauty and wellness, and its mission is to help its readers feel confident and beautiful in their skin. The InStyle editor-in-chief, Laura Brown, is a well-respected fashion industry veteran who has previously served as executive editor of Harper's Bazaar and features director of W magazine. Under her leadership, InStyle has evolved to become a more inclusive and body-positive publication, showcasing diverse models and featuring articles on body positivity and mental health.

One of the standout features of InStyle is its celebrity interviews. The magazine has a knack for getting stars to open up about their personal lives, offering readers a behind-the-scenes look at their favourite celebrities. InStyle also offers fashion and beauty tips, as well as coverage of current events and cultural trends. Overall, InStyle is a fashion magazine that does more than just showcase the latest trends. It inspires its readers to live their best lives and feel confident in their skin. Subscribe today online with us and enjoy your digital magazine, or get delivery at your doorstep.
